Hurricane Relief Resource Fair – Von Braun Center
Thursday, October 20th, 1pm – 4pm

The Church Disaster Relief Task Force is hosting a Hurricane Relief Resource Fair with the support of The Red Cross and The Volunteer Center of Madison County to help connect continually changing needs of evacuees with resources available through community agencies and the Churches of the Valley.

This resource fair will afford evacuees the opportunity to learn of the full scope of free assistance available to them in the Tennessee Valley. It will also provide local churches with contact information that will be used to invite evacuees local to a particular church to receive from that church the full range of physical, relational, and spiritual assistance offered there.

As evacuees transition from short-term housing to longer-term housing, their needs will change. These needs will differ from one evacuee family to the next. Continuing contact between local congregations and evacuees will help those local congregations identify and respond to personal needs of specific evacuee families.

If you would like to help and represent a ministry, church, or community organization and the resources you have available to help evacuees, please submit the online form by Monday, October 17th .
